From the Rector: Of Sacramental Nature

Rector's note: Over the past few weeks there has been a formidable amount of conversation around my blog. The conversations have been respectful and insightful. It is what a blog should engender. There have been discussions as to the nature of Salvation, and recently a discussion on orthodoxy (right belief) in relation to orthopraxy (right practice). I have contended that it is the practice of the faith that forms belief. The Gospels and early writings in the church imply as much....Do the right thing and then the theology will follow....There is challenge to that way of thinking however, always has been, Martin Luther being one such challenger. One thoughtful contributor made the observation that orthodoxy and orthopraxy are rightly described as two sides to the same coin. Pete Wilson weighed in with another metaphor which I think is quite ingenious, and has caused me to think again...which is a healthy thing for all of us to do in this ever-unfolding life of faith. For those of you who did not see Pete's response I am reprinting it here. Thanks to all for these enlightening conversations.

Peter Wilson, June 9th, 2012

To Ashton Hill:

Since you asked for feedback from other readers, please let me make three points.

One, you say that orthodoxy and orthopraxy may be two sides of the same coin. Let me suggest a different metaphor: an estuary. In an estuary, it is difficult to know precisely where the freshwater stops and where the saltwater begins. There is an area of brackishness where the two types of water swirl and mix. In theological reflection, it is likewise difficult to know where belief and practice begin and end. Theology is a swirling and mixing of belief and practice. In the Episcopal tradition, the three resources we use to do theological reflection are scripture, tradition, and reason. Reason includes not just rationalism and logic, but also experience and imagination. We use these tools to reflect on our life experiences, and thus our theological understanding evolves.

Two, the Church's liturgical life is also part of our formation and theological reflection. There are two main cycles in the liturgical calendar: the Incarnational cycle (Advent, Christmas, and Epiphany), and the Paschal cycle (Lent, Easter, Ascension, and Pentecost). These seven seasons of the Church year mark the turning points in the life of Jesus. In marking and living these moments liturgically, the Church lives the life of Jesus and makes the same earthly pilgrimage. This draws us over time into deeper relationships with others, the whole creation, and God. Thus, the practice of living liturgically shapes our belief which in turn shapes our practice. Where does belief start and practice end? The answer is unknowable, so we're back to the estuary metaphor.

Three, the Church's sacramental life is also part of our formation and theological reflection. Sacraments like Holy Baptism or Holy Eucharist are rituals that the Church celebrates regularly in corporate worship. The sacraments are outward and visible signs of God's self-giving. God gives part of himself through the sacraments. The Church in turn gives itself to the world. The Church, then, is a sacrament in, to, and for the world. The sacramental life, like the liturgical life, is part of the Church's belief which informs its practice which in turn informs its belief. So just like an estuary where it is difficult to mark precisely where freshwater ends and saltwater begins, so too in the Church's theological life it is difficult to know where orthodoxy (belief) and orthopraxy (practice) precisely begin and end.

The Episcopal Church offers a way to do theological reflection using scripture, tradition, and reason; through the liturgical calendar it offers a way to make an earthly pilgrimage by following the life of Jesus; and through its sacramental life it offers an ethic and witness based on giving oneself to and for the greater good, which is the way of God. The experience of all this is estuarial. And as anyone who has been in the delta knows, estuaries teem with life.

Pete Wilson is a "cradle" Episcopalian and long-time parishioner of All Saints. He teaches history @ St. Paul's Episcopal School in Mobile, Alabama.

This is a 2-week Herald!

All Saints welcomes the Rev. Ruth LaMonte and her husband, Ed LaMonte, as new parishioners. Those of you who participated in our Lenten program this past spring will remember them as they most ably led us in conversations concerning the Israel/Palestinian situation. Ruth and Ed have decided that they want All Saints to be their church home when they are in our neck of the woods. They share time between homes in Birmingham and Fairhope.

Ed is a retired professor of Political Science from Birmingham Southern College. He has recently been teaching at Springhill College (once a teacher always a teacher). Ruth is retired also, but once a priest always a priest, and in that regard I have asked Ruth, when they are with us, to continue functioning as a priest. On occasion she will preach and celebrate and assist at the altar. Ed has now transferred his membership to All Saints.

Both the LaMontes have said that All Saints is a perfect match for their spiritual sensibilities since they are committed to the resolution of social and economic issues, matters that affect the common good, both at home and abroad; and they appreciate fine liturgy. Ruth will preach June 24 at both services. Please welcome the LaMontes the All Saints way!

Jim Flowers

Breakfast Groups

Since we have lost a group, we are now on a five-week rotation. If you have a copy of the previous schedule, please discard it. There has been some discussion about the types of breakfast to fix, cold or hot. Remember, we are providing an opportunity for people to get together, share a meal and visit, and for the groups to get together and enjoy each others' company. The time spent should be enjoyable, not stressful. Burl Ratcliffe has volunteered to coordinate if groups need to shift dates or need help setting out cold breakfasts; call Burl at church Thursday afternoons or at 251-404-1115.

Prayers are offered for the family and friends of Wayne Smith, who died June 9. There will be a visitation at 9am on Thursday, June 21 at Mobile Memorial Gardens, with the funeral following at 10am in their chapel.

Prayers are also offered for the family and friends of T. Gaines Sullivan, who died June 17. May light perpetual shine upon them.

IHN/Family Promise week concludes on Sunday morning, June 24. Henry Brewster needs help to take down the beds and the walls and put them away. He will start at 9am. Anyone who is willing and able is encouraged to come to Stirling Hall to help!

Help, please! Celeste Powers fell and broke her upper right arm during the 10:30 service last Sunday. Although she does not require surgery (thank God), she and David could use some help with meals since David is still recovering from surgery himself.

Meals are covered through Monday, June 25. If you would like to contribute to meals, please call the Powers at 432-7293 to arrange a delivery time. Thanks!

VBS Time Approaches! Vacation Bible School is drawing near. If you would like to help or if you have children or grandchildren you would like to sign up, please do it soon! You can use the form on the next page or call Mary Robert at 438-2492. Join us as we focus on some faithful characters of the Bible: Noah, Sarah, Joseph, Moses and Jonah.

Teenagers Wanted! Thursday, July 5 is the day that the campers sponsored by All Saints will be leaving for Special Ministries camp at Beckwith. They will arrive at Stirling Hall at noon, have lunch and play some bingo before they get on the bus for their journey across the bay. Any youth who would like to come are needed to help calm nervous campers and allay any fears they may have about leaving. If you want to come, please be there by 12pm.

Anybody of any age who wants to come wish the children bon voyage is encouraged to come around 1pm to meet and greet and to say goodbye. You won't want to miss such a scene of joy!!

The Refugee Pantry needs toothpaste, toilet paper, bath soap bars, laundry soap and both kitchen-size and large-size garbage bags.. Please put your donations on the desk outside the church office. Thank you!

Thanks to all who helped with Food Share this past weekend. As usual, your help is invaluable and those we serve are grateful for your hospitality and your help!

Food Share News

All Saints has to sign a new 3-year contract with the Food Bank to continue our program. Alabama has a new law requiring participating agencies to attend Civil Rights training before signing the contract. Burl Ratcliffe needs a ride to and from the Food Bank in Theodore July 24th. The training starts at 1:00 PM and ends at 3 PM. If anyone can help, call Burl at church Thursday afternoons or at 251-404-1115.

Pizza & a Movie

On Sunday, June 24, the Race Relations Committee of Mobile United will show the documentary, Slavery By Another Name, as part of our ongoing film series, 'Pizza & A Movie.'

Directed by Sam Pollard, produced by Catherine Allan and Douglas Blackmon, written by Sheila Curran Bernard, the National Productions project is based on the 2009 Pulitzer Prize-winning book by Blackmon. Slavery by Another Name challenges one of our country's most cherished assumptions: the belief that slavery ended with Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation of 1863. The documentary recounts how in the years following the Civil War, insidious new forms of forced labor emerged in the American South, keeping hundreds of thousands of African Americans in bondage, trapping them in a brutal system that would persist until the onset of World War II.

Pizza is served at 6pm and the film begins at 6:30 in the Walter K. Smith Room. The film runs 90 minutes. Mark your calendars and come join us!
